We believe that with the capital and resources that Solis brings to the table, Kamino’s growth and success will dramatically accelerate.”

“We look forward to our partnership with Solis Capital Partners,” said Jim Nayyar, Kamino’s CEO. “It was apparent to us from the start that Solis would be a great partner to Kamino. In addition to their investment, they already have proven to be a valuable resource in helping us expand our vision and develop the path to accomplishing that vision. We are very excited about our future. It is time that the market learns more about how successful we are in helping our customers source their products, locate them in the correct part of the world, and expand into more markets making their own businesses far more scalable.”
